

2019 Collegiate Partners[®] Directory

Educational Institutions and Scholarship Providers Working Together to Create Opportunities for Today's Students

What are Collegiate Partners?

Collegiate Partners® are colleges, universities and other accredited postsecondary institutions that demonstrate their commitment to the development of private sector student aid by supporting the mission of Scholarship America® and its Dollars for Scholars® program.

Collegiate Partners institutions make the following commitments relating to undergraduate students:

- Dollars for Scholars scholarships and other Scholarship America-related scholarships will be used to fill any unmet student need remaining after the institution's financial aid package has been calculated.
- When unmet need no longer exists, Dollars for Scholars scholarships and other Scholarship America-related scholarships will be used to adjust the self-help portion of students' financial aid package, with student loans reduced before work-study.
- When unmet need and self-help have been eliminated and an overaward remains, the treatment of Dollars for Scholars and Scholarship America-related scholarships may be applied to the student's financial aid budget at the Institution's discretion. We encourage each Institution to consider alternatives to displacing institutional need-based grant aid in the event of an overaward, such as supporting the purchase of a computer or reducing health care/dependent care expenses and other viable options, including deferring the award to a later year.
- Collegiate Partners also provide additional support in many ways. For example, Collegiate Partners may:
 - provide speakers for Dollars for Scholars affiliate workshops,
 - host Dollars for Scholars events on their campuses,
 - support efforts and provide leadership to organize local Dollars for Scholars affiliates.Refer to the listing on Page 105 to view the schools providing this additional support.

What are Matching Collegiate Partners

Matching Collegiate Partners make further commitments to undergraduate students who have unmet need by agreeing to match (in part or in total) the scholarship awards coming to their campuses from Dollars for Scholars affiliates and/or Scholarship America-managed corporate programs. (Some Matching Collegiate Partners, at their option, provide matching awards even when the student's need is fully met). These matching funds do not replace previously awarded institutional grants.

Matching Collegiate Partner institutions make the following commitments:

- To match scholarship awards coming from Dollars for Scholars affiliates and/or Scholarship America-related programs with the maximum amount matched per student for each academic year set according to the parameters listed below. If no unmet need exists, no matching funds need to be provided.
- That matching funds will not replace previously awarded institutional grants (as outlined under Basic Collegiate Partner commitments).

Matching award policies vary among colleges in the amount of the match per award and the total dollars budgeted each year. In many cases, the matching funds are available on a first-come, first-served basis. Some participating schools require the student to demonstrate financial need or meet other qualifications to be eligible for the match.

The Matching Collegiate Partner schools' policy is listed in bold red print at the end of that school's description. All Matching Collegiate Partners and their matching policy are listed in the forward portion of the Collegiate Partners Directory. Please read the policies carefully.

How To Use This Directory

The Collegiate Partners Directory is an excellent resource for exploring a variety of college opportunities. This Directory provides information about Collegiate Partners and Matching Collegiate Partners. Here's how to locate and understand the information provided in this directory:

- All colleges are listed alphabetically by state with a brief description of each.
- Matching Collegiate Partners are shown in red and are listed in the front portion of this Directory.
- You will notice information highlighted in yellow. To make it easier for you, the Collegiate Partners have supplied the address where you should mail your scholarship checks.
- An index in the back of this Directory lists all colleges alphabetically

Matching Collegiate Partners: The matching award policy for each school is listed in red after the college's description. The information contains the maximum match per student each year and the total amount budgeted by institutions each year to match Dollars for Scholars and/or Scholarship America-managed corporate awards.

Indiana Wesleyan University (IN)

The Indiana Wesleyan story - Indiana Wesleyan University, an evangelical Christian comprehensive university of the Wesleyan Church, was founded in 1920 and is committed to liberal arts and professional education through undergraduate and graduate programs. For many years, Indiana Wesleyan has been the fastest-growing university in Indiana and is now the largest independent university in the state in student headcount. The university is also the largest of the 180 members and affiliate institutions in the Council for Christian Colleges and Universities. Traditional students attend classes on IWU's 350-acre campus in Marion, IN. Most buildings on the university's main campus have been built in the last 20 years, so students live and learn in state-of-the-art residence halls and academic buildings. The university has received national attention for its innovative adult education program, which was launched in 1985. Adult education degree programs are offered online and at regional campuses in Indiana, Kentucky, and Ohio. Online learning has been the largest area of growth for the university in the last five years. Students across the nation and around the world are completing associate, bachelor, and master degrees completely online. Programs of study for adult learners are offered in business, nursing, education, ministry, and counseling. IWU also offers a doctorate in organizational leadership. Most recently, Wesley Seminary at Indiana Wesleyan University was established. The seminary is providing individuals in ministry a highly innovative opportunity to earn a Master of Divinity or Master of Arts in Ministry degree by either attending classes online or on campus. In recent years, the annual survey of American colleges by U.S. News & World Report has recognized Indiana Wesleyan for its educational quality and affordability. IWU is now ranked as one of the top Regional Universities in the Midwest. Two national organizations have tapped IWU as a "best place to work."

Hampshire College (MA)

Opened in 1970 in Amherst, Massachusetts, Hampshire College was created when presidents of four distinguished New England colleges sought a home for bold, influential - even radical - ideas in higher education. At Hampshire your education focuses on personalized, independent work, close collaboration with faculty, and hands-on experience through study abroad, short-term field studies, internships, volunteer work, advanced independent projects, and much more. As part of our academic philosophy, we use narrative evaluations instead of grades, and we no longer consider SAT or ACT scores in any way as part of admissions and financial aid decisions. Our 1,400 students take charge of their own intellectual and artistic development and integrate an active, independent, critical, and reflective perspective into their lives as a whole. Hampshire aims to graduate lifelong learners with the courage to challenge boundaries, ask questions, and ignite knowledge with creativity. Beyond Hampshire's own substantial academic resources, students draw on those of Amherst, Mount Holyoke, and Smith Colleges and the University of Massachusetts at Amherst which together form the Five College consortium.

Saint Anselm College (NH)

Saint Anselm College sits on a beautiful wooded campus in southern New Hampshire, inviting students and visitors into a community inspired by the Catholic Benedictine monks who founded the school 125 years ago and who still make the campus their home. A strongly credentialed faculty of scholars engages and mentors students in small class settings, service opportunities, and independent research. Forty-six majors, forty-three minors, and a strong Liberal Arts core encourage students to tailor their four-year experience by building in honors classes, international study, internships, and athletics. Not to mention meeting presidential candidates at the New Hampshire Institute of Politics! Saint Anselm is proud to graduate thoughtful young men and women who are ready to thrive in graduate school and professional settings and who are committed to living lives of creative service.

ARKANSAS COLLEGIATE PARTNERS

Hendrix College (AR)

Hendrix College is a national leader in engaged liberal arts and sciences education. Hendrix students work closely with faculty who are devoted to teaching and mentoring undergraduate students. Through Hendrix's Odyssey program, students connect what they learn in the classroom with the experience they gain through hands-on activities, such as internships, international study, research, and service. These experiences prepare students for graduate and professional school programs, prestigious postgraduate fellowships, and successful professional careers. The college enrolls approximately 1,350 students, who are taught by a faculty of 120 professors. Eighty-five percent of Hendrix students live on campus, fostering an intimate community for students and faculty to interact. This year, Hendrix was named as one of the country's "Most Innovative" liberal arts colleges and one of the top 30 liberal arts colleges recognized for "A Strong Commitment to Undergraduate Teaching" by U.S. News & World Report. Hendrix is featured in the 2016 Fiske Guide to Colleges, Forbes Magazine's list of America's Top Colleges, the 2016 Princeton Review's Best Southeastern Colleges, and the latest edition of Colleges that Change Lives: 40 Schools That Will Change the Way You Think about Colleges. University of California, San Diego (CA)

The University of California San Diego is one of the nation's most accomplished research universities: diverse, innovative, revolutionary, edgy, risk-taking, socially progressive, sustainable, and life-changing. Washington Monthly ranks UC San Diego first in the nation for public service and positive impact on the country, and U.S. News & World Report lists it as the 10th best public university in the nation. And it's not all work for the university's 35,816 undergraduate and graduate students. This distinctively beautiful campus, with a majestic view of the Pacific Ocean, is both a magnet and a catalyst for international institutes and acclaimed Nobel laureates. Students learn from leading minds and uncommon scholars who are experts at the forefront of their fields with an impressive track record for achieving scientific, medical, and technological breakthroughs. Innovative interdisciplinary programs provide exposure to cross-departmental theories and practices. UC San Diego is also a leader in climate science research and one of the greenest universities in the United States. A unique six-college system offers undergraduate students the benefits of a small liberal arts college, while retaining the academic advantages of a major university. In their college, students enjoy a close-knit neighborhood atmosphere for social life, housing, academic advising, and dining, along with opportunities for involvement in student government and community activities. The campus is a leader in providing undergraduate students with valuable, hands-on research opportunities outside the classroom in virtually every discipline. A UC San Diego education is highly regarded by graduate schools, employers, and educational and scientific organizations. Thirty-two percent of undergraduates study abroad and nearly half of all students are involved in public service. With more than 600 student organizations, students are sure to find a group to suit their goals and interests. UC San Diego's Tritons hold 30 national championships and compete in 23 different NCAA Division II team sports. Students enjoy a wellness program and recreational sports team activities.

University of Redlands (CA)

The University of Redlands is a private, independent university centrally located from the beaches, mountains, and desert in the heart of Southern California. Recognized for having one of the highest study abroad participation rates among our peers, Redlands' students travel the world, choosing from more than 100 programs. Redlands' Community Service Learning program receives national acclaim each year as our students complete over 120,000 hours of public service annually around the world. Redlands offers more than 50 undergraduate programs as well as graduate programs in business, communicative disorders, education, geographic information systems, and music. The university blends liberal arts and professional programs, applied and theoretical study, traditional majors, and self-designed contracts for graduation. For a select group of highly motivated, self-driven students, the progressive Johnston Center for Integrative Studies allows such inclined undergraduates to negotiate their own course of study with a faculty/peer committee, receiving narrative evaluations rather than letter grades. The Master of Science in Geographic Information Systems program is an intensive, one-year residential program that draws international acclaim, in part due to the close collaborative with Redlands-based Esri, the world's leading GIS company.

Quinnipiac University (CT)

Quinnipiac today is a thriving, three-campus university located in southern Connecticut. It offers more than 70 programs to 6,900 undergraduates and 2,300 graduate, medical, and law students. The university, founded in New Haven in 1929 with an emphasis on business, was known as the Connecticut College of Commerce until it changed its name in 1951 to Quinnipiac College. Soon thereafter, having outgrown its New Haven surroundings, the university moved to its 250-acre Mount Carmel Campus in Hamden, Connecticut, 90 minutes north of New York City, two hours from Boston and eight miles from metropolitan New Haven. In 2000, the name Quinnipiac University was adopted to better reflect the quality and diversity of the school's programs at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Over the years, Quinnipiac has experienced dramatic and steady growth in the quality and scope of its academic programs. The early focus on business has now expanded to include nationally recognized programs in health sciences, communications, education, law, and arts and sciences. In 2007, Quinnipiac dedicated its TD Bank Sports Center, the first of several buildings on its 250-acre York Hill Campus. The center houses separate arenas for the university's Division I men's and women's ice hockey and basketball teams. York Hill also contains residence halls for 2,000 students, a student center and fitness facility, and a 2,000-car parking garage. A third 104-acre campus in nearby North Haven serves as home to the School of Education, School of Law, School of Health Sciences, School of Nursing, and Frank H. Netter MD School of Medicine, as well as many graduate programs. Throughout its history, Quinnipiac has remained true to its three core values: high-quality academic programs, a student-oriented environment, and a sense of community. The university is easily reached via the Connecticut Turnpike (Interstates 95 and 91), the Merritt Parkway (Route 15) and Interstate 84.

Indiana State University (IN)

Indiana State University was founded in 1865 as a school for the preparation of teachers. Today, we are much more than that. We still turn out excellent teachers and school administrators, but our graduates are also among today's leaders and innovators in areas such as insurance and risk management, aerospace technology, athletic training, packaging technology, the sciences, and music business. From day one, our students are challenged through well-rounded academic programs and reap the benefits of working alongside our faculty within five academic divisions: Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Business, Education, Nursing, Health and Human Services, and Technology. The College of Graduate Studies serves approximately 2,300 graduate students. Whether graduating with a bachelor's degree or a doctorate, our students leave with the kind of strength, wisdom, and confidence only a well-rounded education provides.

UE's student body of approximately 2,348 undergraduates hails from 45 states and 57 countries. U.S. News & World Report ranks UE in the top ten master's-granting universities in the Midwest and third in the region for "Great Schools, Great Prices." Students choose from more than 80 majors, including nationally renowned programs in fields such as archaeology, civil engineering, physical therapy, and theatre. UE's student-athletes compete in NCAA Division I and twice won the Missouri Valley All-America Award, given to the school with the highest grade point average among student-athletes who compete in the Valley. The university has been recognized as one of the nation's top schools for study abroad by the Institute of International Education's Open Doors report. UE owns and operates a British living-learning centre, Harlaxton College, a 100-room Victorian manor in the countryside near Grantham, England which is ranked as the #1 study abroad program in the country. More than half of UE students study abroad at Harlaxton or in more than 20 countries around the globe. At UE, students experience personal, meaningful interactions, working one-on-one with faculty mentors to create a custom learning experience. Outside the classroom, students can join and lead more than 110 student organizations, and during the 2016-17 academic year, UE students performed more than 14,500 hours of service in the Evansville community. Through each step of their college journey, beginning as a prospective student and continuing after graduation, students work with the dedicated professionals in UE's Center for Career Development as they explore career paths and find their passion. A recent survey of the graduating class of 2017 showed that 94 percent were employed or in graduate school, demonstrating that UE is committed to helping students' investments pay off with measurable results and helping them land not just their first job, but their best job.

Wabash College (IN)

Wabash College, founded in 1832 in Crawfordsville, Indiana, is a private, selective, liberal arts college for men. Our mission at Wabash is to educate men to think critically, act responsibly, lead effectively, and live humanely. Numerous internships and off-campus immersion learning experiences supplement our liberal arts curriculum. Paramount to the Wabash experience is the freedom and responsibility that comes with being a Wabash man. The Gentlemen's Rule, the only rule governing student behavior, calls for students to conduct themselves as gentlemen and responsible citizens, at all times, both on and off campus. Our success as a top-tier liberal arts college is due in large part to our alumni - 12 percent of whom hold the title of President or Chairman of their corporation. Also, nearly 75 percent of Wabash men pursue graduate study within five years of graduation.

KENTUCKY COLLEGIATE PARTNERS

University of the Cumberland (KY)

University of the Cumberland (UC) is an institution of regional distinction that offers degrees in more than 40 major fields of study, including pre-professional, graduate and doctoral programs. With a total enrollment of more than 11,000 students, UC is the largest private university in Kentucky.

Tuition at UC is below that of any private institution in Kentucky and similar to that found at a number of public colleges in Kentucky. Additionally, our robust financial aid program assists 99 percent of undergraduate students with more than $19 million in scholarships, grants, loans, and work-study.

Consistently appearing in national rankings such as U.S. News & World Report, UC is committed to providing students every opportunity to succeed. Many of our undergraduate majors, including our rigorous STEM programs, prepare students for acceptance into postgraduate schools of their choice. Master's and doctoral programs at UC are also nationally recognized for their quality and affordability.

UC offers more than two dozen men's and women's competitive athletic programs. Students also participate in more than 30 clubs and organizations. As part of our mission to enrich students' educations with Christian values, 100 percent of our undergraduate student body participates in some form of community service.

MAINE COLLEGIATE PARTNERS

Bowdoin College (ME)

Bowdoin College is a private, coeducational, undergraduate liberal arts college of 1,800 students. Founded in 1774. It is located in Southern Maine, one of the most attractive regions of New England. Although the cities of Boston, Portland, and Freeport are easily accessible to students, Bowdoin is only three miles from the ocean and provides students with the unique academic and extracurricular benefits of a coastal environment. Much of Bowdoin's appeal lies in its ability to offer an outstanding education in an informal and beautiful environment. The dynamic intellectual atmosphere relies on the strength of its faculty, its state-of-the-art resources, and its ability to attract an unusually academically talented and motivated student body. Over 80 percent of our students will choose to initiate and complete at least one semester of independent study with a professor on topics of personal and academic interest.

College of the Atlantic (ME)

The College of the Atlantic (COA) was founded in 1969 to provide an ecological, problem-solving approach to education that combines academic rigor in the arts and sciences with practical application. The college's small size allows students to work closely with faculty members and to design an individualized program suited to their own particular interests. Enrollment during 2017-2018 was about 375. The college is located in the town of Bar Harbor on Mount Desert Island, Maine, where Acadia National Park is also situated. Connected to the mainland by a causeway, the large, scenic island lies 300 miles north of Boston and 40 miles east of Bangor. The academic program is designed to develop an ecological perspective through the understanding of social, biological, and technological interrelationships. With this perspective, students acquire the skills necessary to enter the fields of science, education, business, law, design, the arts, health, or journalism. Within the degree focus, students may develop individualized programs in one or more of the following areas: environmental science, humanities, international and regional studies, landscape and building design, marine studies, natural-history-museum studies, business, public policy, sustainable agriculture and community development, teacher certification, and visual arts. Sixty percent of COA's alumni have pursued graduate or professional education at some of the country's leading institutions. In addition to its undergraduate degrees, the college also offers a master of philosophy in human ecology.

University of Southern Maine (ME)

The University of Southern Maine is the public metropolitan campus of the University of Maine system. Here you will find a small school atmosphere combined with the choices of a larger university. Our student body of just over 8,000 makes us big enough to provide a wide range of offerings; our small class sizes ensure a quality academic experience where your professors know your name. Our curriculum combines theory and practice, and includes service learning, field practice, internships, and cooperative education, as well as a nationally recognized Honors Program. With 48 academic majors, 22 NCAA Division III teams, and nearly 100 student clubs and organizations, the University of Southern Maine has something for everyone. We are located in beautiful southern Maine with easy access to the Atlantic Ocean, mountains, lakes, and woods, as well as an array of athletic and cultural activities. Our dual residential campuses combine the city sophistication of Portland with the village charm of Gorham. Lewiston-Auburn College, our third campus, located on the banks of the Androscoggin River, offers a unique interdisciplinary learning experience. With reasonable tuition rates, USM provides you with real value: a quality education at an affordable cost.

MARYLAND COLLEGIATE PARTNERS

Johns Hopkins University (MD)

Since its founding in 1876 as America's first research university, Johns Hopkins has been attracting brilliant thinkers. A major force in some of today's most advanced research, Hopkins is committed to the principle that in order to truly learn, asking questions is just as important as answering them. This principle applies to undergraduates across the spectrum of learning - the humanities, social and behavioral sciences, natural sciences, and engineering. Opportunities for creative investigation, combined with a small student-faculty ratio of 13:1, means that Hopkins undergraduates experience the power of education in their own hands.

Franklin Pierce University (NH)

Franklin Pierce University is a four-year, coeducational, nonsectarian institution located in the state of New Hampshire. Approximately 1,400 students are enrolled at its main campus in Rindge, situated on more than 1,200 acres of woodland, fields, and waterfront near the base of Mount Monadnock. Franklin Pierce University is a liberal arts university that dedicates itself to providing an "education that matters" - one that empowers students to connect their academic learning to their career and life choices. The university seeks to combine the values of a liberal arts education with the practical skills demanded in today's knowledge-driven, global society. Franklin Pierce University is committed to providing an academic home where students are able to achieve more than they could have imagined when they first arrived on campus. A distinctive element is the outcomes-based General and Liberal Education curriculum that lies at the heart of this educational promise. The campus is 90 minutes from Boston and 4.5 hours from New York City.

Plymouth State University (NH)

Plymouth State University is a coeducational, residential university with an enrollment of approximately 4,300 undergraduate students and 2,500 graduate students. Plymouth State was founded in 1871 and over the years has expanded to 170 acres and 46 buildings. During its history, the institution has evolved from a normal school to a teachers college to a state college and in 2003 to a state university. Plymouth State preserves the brick-and-ivy look of its New England small-college heritage while integrating state-of-the-art technology and facilities into an attractive, contemporary campus design. With the White Mountains to the north, the Lakes Region to the south, and the Pemigewasset River bordering the town to the east, Plymouth, New Hampshire, is surrounded by some of the country's most beautiful and accessible natural landscape. Such ski areas as Cannon, Loon, Tenney, and Waterville Valley are within 25 miles of the campus, as are the lakes, Big and Little Squam, Winnepesaukee, and Newfound. Plymouth is less than a 2-hour drive from Boston on Interstate 93. Two hours to the east is Portland, Maine; 2 hours northwest is Burlington, Vermont; and 3 hours northwest is Montreal, Canada.

Plymouth State has created a bold new approach to education that develops student's strengths and interests while helping them become leaders for tomorrow's world. We're achieving this through our innovative Integrated Clusters model, which lets students create a degree that's unique to them. This innovative model allows students to work across disciplines in a hands-on team environment. The Open Lab approach means students aren't just sitting in a classroom taking notes; they are working across disciplines and with businesses and organizations outside of PSU to develop real-world solutions as part of a team. In addition, PSU's 4+1 program allows students to earn their Bachelor's degree in four years then go straight into the graduate program, where they can earn a Master's degree in a year.

The university offers B.A., B.F.A., B.S., M.A.T., M.B.A., M.Ed., M.S., and Ed.D., degrees and the Certificate of Advanced Graduate Studies (CAGS) in Education. Plymouth State is accredited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges (NEASC), the New Hampshire Postsecondary Education Commission, and the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE).

Washington & Jefferson College (PA)

Founded in 1781, Washington & Jefferson College (W&J) in Washington, Pennsylvania, is one of the nation's oldest and most distinguished four-year liberal arts and sciences colleges.

The College's mission is to graduate people of uncommon integrity, competence, and maturity who are effective lifelong learners and responsible citizens, and who are prepared to contribute substantially to the world in which they live. To this end, Washington & Jefferson College promotes the development of the skills, knowledge, personal qualities, and worldview that characterize a well-educated person.

W&J provides student-centered instruction within a liberal arts and sciences curriculum, emphasizing interdisciplinary study and independent student work. The College is internationally known for its successful health professions and pre-law programs, and across all fields more than 90 percent of W&J graduates are accepted into graduate school or employed six months after graduation.

In the past decade, the College has grown its student population, and the number of study abroad programs has increased from 4 to 40. W&J's nationally acclaimed Magellan Project allows all W&J students to take advantage of challenging independent study and travel opportunities, prestigious internships, or advanced research fellowships.

W&J is recognized by the New York Times in its list of College Doing the Most for the American Dream, in addition to being included in "Fiske Guide to Colleges" and The Princeton Review's 2018 edition of "The Best 382 Colleges."
